Your Hotel Room: The Beds

You'll quickly notice two things about the beds you'll likely come across on your adoption trip.

First, they are almost always singles. Two single beds separated by a nightstand, just like an old episode of I Love Lucy. The queen- or king-size beds we're used to in Western hotels are rare in China, outside of the high-end multinational chains catering to business travelers. If queen mattresses exist at our hotel, they're in the most expensive suites ... even at the White Swan.

The second observation will come as you sit down on the bed. It has a mattress, sheets, and blankets as you'd expect. But no springs, no memory foam, certainly not one of those Sleep Number™ jobs. No fluff. Basically, you'll be sleeping on a board for the next two weeks.

There is no problem with kids jumping on the beds in a Chinese hotel.

The extra pillows are in the cabinet under the TV. You'll need them.
